

Bus Lines Are Using Old Terminal, While Work Continues On New Site

Frederick Hilt Takes Lease To Terminal on Crown Street and Waiting Room Is Opened Again To Patrons.

OTHER TERMINAL

This Morning Work Was Still Going On at the North Front Street Site.

Bus lines today were using the old bus terminal on Crown street. The terminal was thrown open Saturday afternoon to use and the large buses have been parking on the street for the past few days since the terminal was closed to use by the Metropolitan Insurance Company, owners of the property.

Re-opening of the Crown street terminal came as a result of a visit to Kingston by Metropolitan Insurance Company representatives, who came here at the solicitation of Leonard H. Beers, manager of Sears, Roebuck & Company's local store. On Friday the representatives were in town conferring on the matter of opening the terminal and late Saturday morning an agreement was finally reached and that afternoon the terminal was opened.

Frederick Hilt, who operates the store on Crown street across from the terminal, has taken a lease to the terminal from the owners and has placed Kenneth Enslin in charge of the terminal as manager. Mr. Enslin was on duty today and the waiting room was open again to patrons of the lines, which use the terminal.

Asked as to whether a lease had been given by the owners, Mr. Hilt said a lease had been signed and the matter of liability insurance had been taken care of. It has been reported that the matter of liability insurance was one of the reasons the terminal was closed. With the terminal being used with the consent of the owners any accident which happened on the premises would open the owners to liability unless some protection was secured. This matter has been taken care of by Mr. Hilt and the company is thereby relieved of any claim for damage which might arise.

Many of the bus patrons as well as the operators of several of the lines had expressed a desire to have the old terminal retained, Mr. Hilt, said, and it was in response to that demand which caused him to enter into negotiations with the owners.

This morning work was still going on at the North Front street site where a terminal has been under construction for the past several days. Workmen were busy removing a huge stump and the work of grading and placing gravel was still under way. This site was selected by Max Adachefsky, who formerly operated the Crown street terminal, when the old site was closed. Arrangements were made to have waiting rooms in the building adjoining the parking space where his father conducted a tailor shop and arrangements were made to re-locate the tailor shop. As soon as a lease was taken on the parking space work was commenced on grading the lot, lowering the sidewalk and making a wide driveway.

When the Crown street site was closed to the bus owners and operators the bus lines parked in the public street on Crown street. This created a dangerous congestion and there was considerable action on the matter of getting the buses off the street. It was expected that the Common Council would take some action in the matter Tuesday evening and that a route over which the lines must operate would be designated. The North Front street site appeared to be the only site which was available and suited to the purpose but with the leasing of the Crown street terminal and the re-opening of the old site it is impossible to determine what the Common Council may now do. The Common Council, through recommendations of the bus committee may designate the North Front street site by making that street one which the bus lines must operate over or the council may take no action and permit the old terminal to be used by making no change in routes.

Until after Tuesday morning the matter of which bus terminal will be used permanently will still remain a disputed subject among bus line operators and bus terminal operators. In the meantime the Crown street terminal will be in use and the bus lines will not be inconvenienced by the dangerous street parking situation which has existed on Crown street for the past couple of weeks.

No Decision Today On the Guffy Coal Act

Washington, May 4 (AP).—Another opinion session failed to produce a Supreme Court ruling today on constitutionality of the Guffy coal act.

The decision was postponed for at least two weeks.

The court adjourned until May 15 after meeting briefly to announce whether it would review 18 controversies appealed from lower courts. Not a single decision was handed down.

Three more sessions for the announcement of decisions will be held before the court adjourns for the summer on June 1.

Twenty-four cases remain to be decided, an average of 8 for each meeting.

Court observers had not expected the Guffy decision today, as the justices had been tied up all week listening to arguments.

That left little time to write opinions.

Former Supervisor Robert W. Flemming lies in a serious condition at the Benedictine Hospital as the result of being struck by a bolt of lightning as he sat in a chair on the enclosed front porch of his home, 33 New street, about 8:30 o'clock Sunday evening, and the downtown house lighting circuits were placed out of commission for about three-quarters of an hour when lightning struck an oil switch in the interconnection system.

Mr. Flemming and his son-in-law, Frank Grant, were seated on the front porch of the Flemming home watching the vivid display of lightning in the heaviest electrical storm of the season. The porch is enclosed with glass windows. Suddenly there was a sharp crack as a bolt of lightning struck the roof of the porch, tearing off part of the woodwork and cracking some of the glass in the windows. The bolt struck Mr. Flemming under the left arm and traveled down that side of his body and then jumped to the right foot, ripping off the right shoe, and then followed the electric conduit down through the porch floor, extinguishing the floor light that stood alongside the chair where Mr. Flemming had been sitting.

Mr. Grant also sustained a slight shock, but was not injured. Mr. Flemming collapsed and as the bolt struck all of the house lights in New street and the top of the West Chestnut street hill were extinguished. The Flemming house was also plunged into total darkness. Mrs. Flemming and her son were inside the house when they heard the terrific crash that followed the striking of the lightning bolt.

The first flashes of lightning that followed the first bolt, however, showed that Mr. Flemming had been struck and his clothing ripped from his body. Candles were hastily lighted and the son and Mr. Grant carried Mr. Flemming inside the house and then the police were called and Dr. John F. Larkin. The police got in touch with the Conner ambulance which was rushed to the scene and Mr. Flemming was taken to the hospital where he is under the care of Dr. Larkin. His condition is quite serious. He was reported as resting as comfortably as can be expected at noon today.

The right shoe that was torn from his foot had the whole upper part ripped off, leaving only the lower part of the sole and heel hanging together.

Mr. Flemming was badly burned under the left shoulder and across the abdomen and the left side of his body. The shock was such that he was rendered unconscious.

Fortunately the lightning did not set the house on fire.

The storm that swept over Kingston did not affect the street lighting system, but the downtown house circuits were out for nearly three-quarters of an hour, and all of the houses were suddenly plunged in darkness as the lights flashed out. Radios that were playing also suddenly ceased as the circuits failed.

Householders with the use of matches and flashlight beams rummaged around the house until they could find candles or kerosene lamps which were lighted, and offered some illumination, even if dim.

The Central Hudson Corporation was deluged with telephone messages calling attention to the fact that house lights were out, and anxious inquirers were informed that the repair crews were at work and that service would be restored as promptly as possible.

Little Damage in County.

Utter county apparently escaped with comparatively little damage the severe electrical storm which swept the eastern portion of New York state Sunday afternoon. North of Kingston the damage was much more severe and the rainfall was much greater. In Albany over an inch and a half of rain fell in about three-quarters of an hour.

In Kingston two of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation circuits were out for about three-quarters of an hour. The two circuits were those east of Broadway, known as the downtown circuits. This damage was due to the lightning striking an oil switch in the interconnection system. In various parts of the county there were minor interruptions of service due to lightning striking poles or lines. None of these delays in service were of long duration.

At Farm Bureau Manager Kurt was returning home to Ulster Park a pole near the Leslie Herring farm was struck just as Mr. Kurt was passing, but he and his family were unharmed.

At New Paltz Fred DuBois reported today that there had been some hail during the early evening, but no reports of serious damage were received.

A severe hail storm at this season of the year would do great damage to fruit crops as many varieties of trees are now in full blossom and

Partisan Outbreaks Threaten "Final Week" Hopes of Legislators

Financing of Unemployment Relief, Centralization of Relief Administration Top the Calendars at Albany.

OTHER PROBLEMS

Congressional and Legislative Reapportionment, Anti-Crime and Highway Recommendations.

Albany, N. Y., May 4 (AP).—New York's four-month-old Legislature headed today into what leaders are convinced will be its final week, still confronted with problems that appear likely to provoke fresh partisan outbreaks before the gavel falls.

Financing of unemployment relief after November 15, as proposed by Governor Lehman, and centralization of relief administration in a permanent authority within the state social welfare department top the calendars.

Other major problems awaiting action include:

Congressional and legislative reapportionment, reduction of the old age pension limit from 70 to 65 years, ratification of the federal child labor amendment, imposition of tolls on the barge canal, continuation of the "drink more milk" campaign and pari-mutuel betting.

In addition, many of Governor Lehman's anti-crime and highway safety recommendations have yet to run the legislative gauntlet.

Despite these issues, leaders believe the curtain will fall by either Thursday or Friday, thus bringing to an end the longest session since 1917.

The relief question will command immediate attention in the Assembly, where the Republican majority is expected to kill the governor's recommendation for a $10,000,000 appropriation from general funds to pay localities 40 per cent of their expenditures for home and work relief from November 15 to February 15, 1937.

Republican leaders have indicated that they will go along, however, with the proposal to authorize submission of a $30,000,000 relief bond issue to the November electorate, with $15,000,000 to be made available immediately if approved. Both proposals were adopted by the Democratic-controlled Senate.

The Republicans are opposed to the $10,000,000 appropriation because it would mean additional taxes, Governor Lehman has indicated he would ask restoration of the fourth cent of the state gasoline tax to finance it. This levy was eliminated by the Republican Assembly majority in its drive for reduced taxes.

Furthermore, Republicans take the position that the money will not be needed until next spring, when the 1937 Legislature can study the unemployment problem anew and appropriate funds then as it sees fit.

Governor Lehman's proposal to align New York with the federal social security act is definitely scrapped through Assembly action, but one of the program's major provisions—reduction of the old age pension limit—has been passed separately by the Republican-led Assembly and awaits action in the Senate.

This proposal may gain approval even through the other seven points are not reconsidered.

Both reapportionment and ratification of the federal child labor amendment appear doomed to defeat again, despite appeals by Governor Lehman for their approval.

Sponsors of the proposal to continue the "drink more milk" campaign for another year made a last-minute appeal for its passage, warning that abandonment of the project may result in a milk price collapse "in face of certain increased production."

Senator William T. Byrne, Albany Democrat, and Assemblyman Fred S. Hollowell, Yates Republican, made the appeal in a joint statement.

They explained that difficulties of disposing of the ordinary surplus will be multiplied this year by an increased production that may be six per cent or more "because of the unusually rich pastures resulting from the heavy snows and wet spring."

Glenn to Name Knox

Chicago, May 4 (AP).—Former U. S. Senator Otis F. Glenn of Illinois announced today that he would put the name of Col. Frank Knox into nomination for president at the Republican National Convention in Cleveland.

U.S. Legation Repels Bandits At Addis Ababa, Sends Call For British Assistance Today

John Bradford Was Fatally Injured in Fall from a Window

About 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning Special Officer Hicks found John Bradford, 19, of 25 West Strand laid in a pool of blood on the sidewalk in front of his home. Bradford was lying with his feet on the sidewalk and his body out in the gutter. Officer Hicks immediately sent in an alarm and Officers Kinch and Straley were rushed to the scene.

Bradford, while unconscious, was still living and was rushed to the Kingston Hospital where he died shortly after the noon hour. Coroner Lenton DuBois of New Paltz, who investigated the death, ordered the body turned over to Undertaker James V. Halloran, and gave as his verdict, "accidental death, caused by a fall from a window."

Officers Kinch and Straley made a thorough investigation and found that the bathroom window on the third floor was open. The window sill is about one foot from the floor and it is thought that Bradford fell out of the open window to the pavement three floors below.

From the investigation of the officers it was learned that young Bradford, his mother, Mrs. Olive Ryan, and John Brodhead of 88 East Union street had been in Guadagnola's place at 5 Canal street, on Saturday night. The young man left the place about 10 o'clock Saturday evening when his mother told him he had better go home.

About half an hour later Bradford went to the Ryan apartment and found Bradford in the kitchen. He returned to Guadagnola's place and informed Mrs. Ryan that Bradford was safe at home.

When Officer Hicks first discovered Bradford the youth was lying face down in the gutter with his feet still on the sidewalk. The body lay in a deep pool of blood caused by the many injuries the young man had sustained in the fall from the third story window. He sustained a fractured skull and other injuries.

Bradford is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ryan, and two brothers, Roswell and James Bradford. Funeral services will be held from the Halloran funeral parlors at 44 Broadway on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with burial in Whitwick cemetery.

State and Railroad Engineers Look Over B'way Crossing Here

Engineers from the state public service commission and the New York Central Railroad met with Mayor C. J. Heiseleman at the city hall today, and after a brief conference inspected the Broadway Railroad crossing which is proposed to be eliminated by depressing the street under the railroad tracks.

The railroad has submitted a plan for eliminating the crossing by depressing the street under the railroad tracks, but the plan as submitted by the railroad has been strongly objected to by Mayor Heiseleman and other city authorities as well as the business men of the central section of Broadway.

Alternative plans have been submitted by the city, including one submitted by the Central Business Association, which called for a new street to be constructed between the O'Reilly building and the branch of the Kingston Trust Company and then tunneling under the railroad tracks emerging on Thomas street.

Another plan that has been proposed for consideration was a tunnel under the Sterling street crossing, and what is known as the Canfield plan which called for the depressing of Broadway under the tracks.

While in Kingston it is understood that the engineers will also inspect the proposed Saugerles road grade crossing elimination which is now under construction. The contracting company has a problem on its hand for water has been struck after excavating to a depth of about four feet. Whether piling will be used or concrete is said to be the question that will be considered. Working to the water conditions found in excavating it will be necessary to either sink piling on which to rest the foundation of the structure or else to use large slabs of concrete.

Broad Attack on Taxes.

Washington, May 4 (AP).—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States directed a broad attack on the administration tax program today before the Senate finance committee. A series of Chamber spokesmen appeared before the committee to criticize the House bill from various angles. The first, Fred H. Claussen, chairman of the chamber's committee on federal finance, contended it failed to provide for balancing the budget.

Van H. Engert, U.S. Minister, Tells

How a Handful of Attaches Fought Off Attack; Wife Has Narrow Escape.

"EMPIRE CRUMBLES"

Selassie to Seek Refuge in Palestine; Badoglio Reports Army 50 Miles From Goal.

Washington, May 4 (AP).—After beating off one vicious assault by Ethiopian bandits, the minister to Ethiopia today told Washington the "situation is getting worse" and appealed for British assistance to protect America's legation.

Evidencing the danger threatening the tiny group of Americans still holding the legation against marauders was the serious wounding of two native women in the servants' quarters.

Cornelius Van H. Engert, the minister, reported with pride how a handful of Americans and native servants had driven off a bandit attack at 9 o'clock in the morning (2 a. m. Eastern Standard Time) after his wife narrowly escaped bullets of the rioters.

"I can not speak too highly of comrades who grasped at once the importance of energetic action," he said.

But six hours later, Engert appealed for British aid through the state department, hoping London could reach Sir Sidney Barton, the minister at Ethiopia, by wireless because his own messengers could not get through the shot-riddled capital.

Ten hours later at 5 p. m., Ethiopian time, Engert, without saying whether a massed attack on the legation appeared imminent, wirelessly released this terse message:

"Situation Worse"

Several direct shots fired at buildings and radio station since this morning, and two native women in our servants' quarters have been seriously wounded."

In response to Engert's appeal, the state department reached Robert W. Bingham, ambassador in London, by telephone and Bingham immediately set out to communicate with the British foreign office.

"With the assistance of a few Sikhs (British Indian troops who guard the British legation) and one Lewis gun we could hold this legation if Italians arrive within a few days," was the message Engert wanted transmitted to the British legation in Addis Ababa.

Throughout the Ethiopian capital Engert said "random firing continued unabated" and that several buildings "are still ablaze." After the first attack on the legation, a sub-machine gun was added to the legation's meager armory. Brought in by an Ethiopian policeman, it was of Italian make.

President Roosevelt kept in close touch with the situation, receiving official dispatches from the state department as fast as they were recorded. There was no White House comment however on the attack on the American legation.

Selassie to Palestine

Emperor Haile Selassie, who fled before the imminent invasion of Premier Mussolini's black-shirt armies, will seek refuge in Haifa, Palestine. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the British House of Commons.

He will sail aboard H. M. S. Enterprise, for the British mandated territory from Djibouti, French Somaliland, where he took refuge in his flight from his capital city.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio, commander-in-chief of the Italian armies in East Africa, advised his government that Italy's East African troops, acting as "advance point" for the main Italian body, were virtually at Addis Ababa.

His daily communique said the advance guard for the motorized column had passed a point some 50 miles from the city which had been reduced to a shambles by mobs carrying torch and rifle.

The advance guard is preceded by native infantrymen.

"Empire Has Crumbled"

Fallans renewed their assertions that the Ethiopian empire had crumbled and that Italian domination must be recognized by the world.

In the south, Badoglio advised Rome, "Our rapid advance continued despite very heavy rains. Our troops have reached a point 30 kilometers (20 miles) beyond Darsah Bur and have beaten and dispersed the warlike Omer Samantar  The Akaden population is receiving the Italians joyously."

Through the American legation was sent a dispatch under the command signatures of American correspondents in the Ethiopian capital said on the whole feeling had diminished as desperate entered the city from the surrounding hills and endangered the lives of both natives and foreigners.

It was again said that refugees of both sexes were being sheltered in the Protestant Church.

Lynch Law Takes Lives of 3 Negroes To Set New Record

Pavo, Ga., May 4 (AP)—Lynch law, striking twice in Georgia and once in Arkansas, today had reached a new crest with the killing of three negroes in less than a week.

John Rushin, 55-year-old farm hand, became the third victim here yesterday when a mob of about 200 men shot him to death in revenge for the slaying of Marion Pate, 24-year-old white man.

In Atlanta, Arthur Raper, field and research secretary of the interracial commission, said he was "almost certain" that never in modern times had southern mobs killed in three places in the space of a week.

The other victims:

Lint Shaw, 45, taken from a jail at Royston, Ga., last Tuesday and shot at the scene of a reported attempt to attack two white girls.

Willie Kees, 19, wrested from a marshal by 10 masked men at Lepanto, Ark., found shot Wednesday night not far from the spot where he was accused of an attempted attack on a white woman.

In each, a coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by gunshot wounds "at the hands of persons unknown."

Deputy Sheriff Herbert Kennedy of Thomas county said Pate was slain after he and two other men picked Rushin up in their truck as the negro walked along a road near here early Sunday morning.

He said the men fought in the truck and Rushin slashed Will Gayle and turned on Pate who leaped from the truck with the negro in pursuit.

Robert Burgess, Pate's second companion, drove Gayle on to a hospital. Pate's slashed body was found a few hours later.

Bloodhounds were called and Rushin was captured by a large posse not far from the scene of the killing.

Kennedy said the prisoner was snatched from him as he turned his head to answer a query while on the way to his automobile. The mob rushed the negro away in a truck.

Kennedy said the gang had taken his automobile keys.

Rushin's bullet-torn body was dragged into Pavo and dumped in a negro schoolyard where it remained several hours.

To Speak at School Of Politics Here

MRS. HAROLD REMINGTON

The Republican Educational League of New York state will hold a school of politics at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Wednesday afternoon and evening, May 6, under the auspices of the Kingston Women's Republican Club, of which Mrs. Harry B. Walker is president.

The speakers will be Mrs. Harold Remington of Watertown, first vice-chairman of the League and study service, and Mrs. Henry R. Caraway of Carmel, president of the Women's National Republican Club in New York. The same speakers will talk the previous night in Hudson and will go from here to Wurtsboro.

A four-weeks' tour, visiting 21 counties, is planned. Mrs. Remington is president of the Jefferson county Women's Republican Club, member of the Republican state executive committee, and a member of the National Council of the Women's National Republican Club. She is also a member of the state affairs committee and the school of politics committee of that club. She is a charter member and former president of the Jefferson county College Women's Club and is now chairman of the loan fund for the assistance of college girls in the county. She was founder of the Parent-Teacher Association in Watertown and is also a past president of the Watertown Bureau of Charities. A member of the Wednesday morning art class of Watertown, she is also a former officer of Morning Musicales, Inc. She is the mother of two sons, one an army flyer at Mitchell Field and the other a student at Annapolis.

Mrs. Caraway, who is one of the contributing editors of the Educational League's magazine, The Woman Republican, served as editor of The Golden, published by the Women's National Republican Club, before she assumed the presidency, to which she has just been re-elected. She now contributes a book column. She is a graduate of the University of Chicago. She frequently lectures in various parts of the country on current events and political topics.

An additional speaker at Kingston and Wurtsboro will be Miss Natalie F. Couch, Nyack attorney, who ran for representative-at-large two years ago. Miss Couch, treasurer of the Republican Educational League, is a member of the state executive committee.

West Ireland Has Wealth That Has Brought Fame.

All West Ireland is rich in literary associations. Just off the coast, across the mouth of Galway, bay, lie the Aran Islands, where John M. Synge went to live after he had decided to write plays of Irish peasant life. They are among the last homes of Gaelic in Ireland, and long before travelers came to see the fascinating native life on them, scholars had come there from all Europe to study that language, according to a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

Synge told of the life of the Aran fishermen in his "Riders to the Sea," and many times acknowledged his debt to Irish peasants such as these.

One of the most conspicuous features of the islands is the great slabs of limestone on them, which in some places tower up a thousand feet. Because the surface of the stone is so slippery, the islanders all wear a soft rawhide moccasin, held together with thongs, and in place of rowboats they get about in "currachs" light canoes of wickerwork. These are covered with canvas, and ride over the waves of the Atlantic like chips on its back. Frail as currachs appear, the islanders often transport domestic animals from one island to another in them.

North of the islands is Sligo, where William Butler Yeats was born. Sligo is built on a wide bay with many islands, and across from it is Knockarea, where "the host is riding."

On Benbulbin, the chief mountain of the section, died Diarmuid, with whom Grania fell from Tara, jilting her other lover, the giant Finn MacCool. Later when MacCool came asking Diarmuid to give him, he and Finn went hunting together, and on Benbulbin he met his death through Finn's spells. MacCool then went off with Grania, who became his queen.

OLD BIBLE SCRIPTS ARE PHOTOGRAPHED

Monasteries on Mount Athos Yield Valuable Data.

Princeton, N. J.—Approximately 2,200 photographs of Biblical manuscripts in Greek Orthodox monasteries on Mount Athos, many never before photographed and several never before seen by American scholars, have made it possible for Princeton University professors to reconstruct the origins and development of Biblical illustrations in manuscripts from the Second to the Nineteenth centuries.

The photographic expedition, sponsored by Princeton University, passed two and a half months in 14 of the 20 monasteries on Mount Athos, one of the richest depositories of early Bible pictures.

Since late in January Prof. Albert M. Friend, Jr. and Ernest T. DeWald, of the Princeton departments of art and archeology, and Dr. Kurt Weissmann, leader of the expedition, have been compiling a preliminary classification of the photographs in preparation for publication of all the illustrations found in the Greek manuscripts of both the Old and New Testaments. Doctor Weissmann was assisted in the selection by Prof. Friend and Ernest T. DeWald, of the University of Prague.

Unknown to scholars.

The earliest of the manuscripts photographed, many of which had not been catalogued and were therefore unknown to scholars, were painted in the Ninth century.

Other pictures now in the Princeton collection date to the Sixth century, and, with the Mount Athos photographs, make possible accurate determination of the general structure of Bible illustrations as far back as the Second century, Professor Friend said.

In the collection which Professor Friend began to compile about 1920, are 10,000 photographs of Old and New Testament manuscript illustrations, of which 2,000 are of miniature pictures in the Vatican library. There are about 1,000 similar illustrations from manuscripts in the Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris. With the addition of the Mount Athos pictures seven-eighths of the known material has been assembled.

See Ancient Volume.

The expedition was the first permitted to see the contents of the "Gospels of Nicophorus Phocas," an imperial gift to the Monastery of Great Laura, the first on Mount Athos. The volume is bound in golden covers and embossed with gems and enamel. Miniature pictures in the volume of the three great feast days are among the finest examples of early Eleventh-century Byzantine art.

The work at Princeton has been undertaken as a part of the preparation of an exhaustive index of Christian art, a catalogue of Christian art which has been in the process of classification for more than 20 years.

Two volumes on the Old Testament corpus are planned for publication this year, with complete publication of the enormous collection expected to require about ten years. Ten volumes of Old Testament illustrations and four volumes of text about them are planned. The New Testament is expected to require four volumes of illustrations and two volumes of text. Professor DeWald is in charge of preparation of the text of the first two volumes.

Teach Soil Conservation Through Motion Pictures

Washington—Motion pictures will be used as part of the administration's program for educating the farmers of America to the need of soil conservation, keystone of the substitute for the invalidated AAA. An appropriation bill carries $75,000 for the preparation and distribution of motion pictures dealing with the Department of Agriculture's scientific work. This sum will enable the department to operate its movie laboratories, draft its scenarios, and edit and prepare its pictures on soil conservation.

The soil conservation service, out of its own appropriation, may be asked to earmark additional funds for educational pictures on soil conservation, showing approved methods for protection and conserving the nation's soil fertility.

In its extension work the Department of Agriculture has long made effective use of the motion picture. Its Washington studio is up to date though small.

Lost Koran Manuscript Found in Shop in Cairo

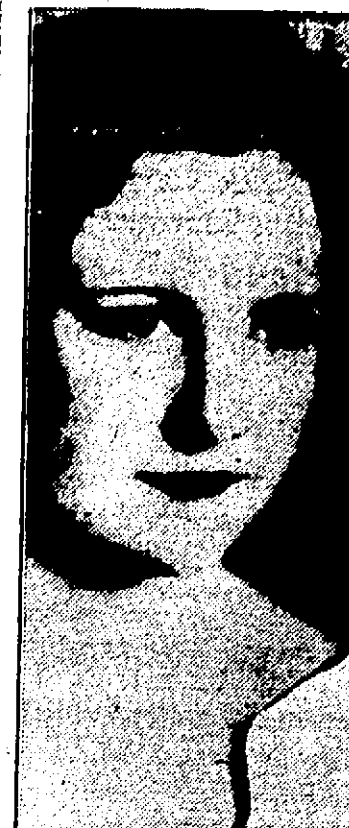

Jerusalem.—The four-year-old mystery of the disappearance from the museum of the Mosque El Aksa of a Koran manuscript of the Middle ages was solved when it was found in the shop of a Cairo antiquity dealer, to whom the document had been sold for $50.

The Koran was part of a collection of 25 manuscript volumes which were considered priceless because they had been written by the Moorish Sultan Abdul Hussain Merini in the Thirteenth century.

In the same shop as the ancient Roman Koran found in the Mosque of Cordova, the manuscript was treasured because of its remarkable decorations. It was written 600 years ago on Gossile parchment, luxuriously illustrated, bound in gold and embossed on both sides in silver.

Corned beef and cabbage are raising a close race with steaks and chops in the survey being conducted among eatables in all walks of life to determine the most popular American dishes as a feature of National Restaurant Week, May 4 to 10, in which 10,000 restaurants throughout the United States are participating.

KINGSTON PLAYERS GUILD PRESENTS "THE NINTH GUEST"

The cast of the "Ninth Guest" has been busy during the last few weeks rehearsing for its third production of the season. The Kingston Players Guild at its last meeting decided to produce the play at the new Municipal Auditorium. In order to improve the acoustics properties of this large hall, a large curtain will be hung from the ceiling extending from wall to wall. While this will reduce the seating capacity the benefits derived from the increased properties will be obvious to all who attend.

The setting of the "Ninth Guest" calls for an ultra modern penthouse and in order to carry out the playwrights idea the Kingston Players Guild has built a considerable expense, scenery especially designed for this play. Much credit must be given to Mr. Milliken who had charge of the construction of this scenery. Mr. Milliken has had a wealth of experience in this field, having supervised the building of scenery for professional stage companies.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR TROOP COMMITTEEMEN

The training committee under the leadership of C. L. Dumm, and the organization committee under the leadership of Everett Schutt, are preparing the material and securing the enrollments for the coming training school for troop committeemen.

The school for the Kingston district will meet in the Municipal Auditorium on Wednesday evenings, May 6, 12, and 20, from 7:45 to 10 o'clock. The purpose of which is to train men for places of leadership and responsibility in Boy Scout troops.

Mr. Schutt reports that new troop committeemen will be present from the Roundout Presbyterian, Trinity Lutheran, Clinton Avenue M. E., St. James M. E., and Livingston Street Lutheran churches, and he hoped to have one or two more of the new groups ready to participate.

Many of the present troop committeemen are planning to be present and it is expected that this will add considerably to the number of scout units in the community and make it possible for a larger number of boys to enjoy this program.

Harvard Haircut Once Prescribed by "Rules"

Even the Harvard haircut is a tradition, harking back to the Seventeenth century when "long hair" was forbidden. Dr. Samuel Elliot Morison points out in "Harvard College in the Seventeenth Century."

Harvard men were warned against all sorts of "newfangled fashions." The clothes of the modern Harvard youth are far different from the clothes of the student of the Seventeenth century. For the Harvard man was forbidden "to go out of his chamber without coat, gown, or cloak, and everyone, everywhere, shall wear modest and sober habit, without strange ruffianlike or newfangled fashions, without laces, dresses, or excess of apparel whatsoever."

The college authorities declared that "it shall not be lawful for any student to wear long hair, locks or forelocks, nor to use curling, crimping, parting, or powdering their hair." Just to make sure the rule was carried out, the college printer took charge of the functions of the barber.

Impoverished students were able to pay tuition with such commodities as roses, eggs, stewed honey, wax, ribbon and canvas. The most popular medium of payment were wheat and malt, which could be used to make beer. More than 75 students brought in sacks of wheat. Other "payments in kind" were Indian corn, rye, barley, calves, cream, oatmeal, corn, sheep, lamb, swine, geese, hens, ducks, chickens, turkeys, butter, eggs, apples, peas, plums, turnips, stewed honey, wax, sheet, tallow, beads, salt, spices, raisins, saffron, rose water, breadstuffs, rovers, serge and pewter.—Boston Globe.

The concrete and steel in the San Francisco-Oakland bridge are sufficient to build 35 buildings the size of the Los Angeles city hall, which is 13 stories high.

It will be a dull campaign, when the summer's cool enough for people to enjoy their position.

CLEVELAND'S HALL READY FOR G. O. P.

Republicans to Gather for Convention June 9.

Cleveland.—When Mr. and Mrs. Republicans come to Cleveland, June 9, to hold their family reunion in this city's huge Public Hall, they will find many changes have been made in that structure since they last met here in 1924, the year Calvin Coolidge was nominated and elected President. At that time it wasn't quite finished.

Herbert Buckman, manager of the hall, and his staff are busy preparing for the national Republican convention, which will select the party's Presidential nominee.

Preparations were started almost simultaneously with announcement Cleveland had been selected as 1936 convention site, and will continue right up to the moment when National Chairman Henry P. Fletcher taps his gavel for the first session.

Public Hall seats some 40,000 persons. There are three available stories, not including the level below the street. The area of this hall covers six ordinary city blocks, the main unit being 565 feet long and 215 feet wide.

Its total cost was in the neighborhood of $10,000,000 and it brings the city of Cleveland an annual revenue ranging from $400,000 to $600,000.

It is equipped with all modern devices for comfort and pleasure of large audiences, including several motion picture outfits, a public address system throughout, an extensive ventilation and air-cooling system and a $100,000 pipe organ.

The Republicans will find ample room on the huge stage in the auditorium, where the main sessions of the convention will be held. Newspaper men, telegraph operators and others will find plenty of room, too. The rear of the stage will be lined with press tables, with each group of reporters having its headquarters in rooms beneath the stage.

Cleveland city officials, merchants and practically every business firm are looking forward to seeing the Republicans in June, as it is estimated the convention will be responsible for several million dollars pouring into the pockets of Cleveland business men.

France's Army Officers Given Required Reading

Paris—What the well-read army officer must have gone through in English has been fixed by the Journal Officiel.

Candidates for entry to the special military school must have read in English:

Creasy's "Decisive Battles of the World"; Rudyard Kipling's "The Day's Work"; Joseph Conrad's "Youth" and "The End of the Tether"; R. C. Sheriff's and Vernon Bartlett's "Journey's End"; Lytton Strachey's "Eminent Victorians" (with emphasis on Florence Nightingale and General Gordon); Arnold Bennett's "Anna of the Fire Towns."

College Scholarships Valued at $10,000,000

St. Louis.—More than 50,000 scholarships and fellowships, representing a value of $10,000,000, are available each year at colleges and universities in the country, Dr. George F. Donovan, president of Webster college, has found.

Since the war, he said, with the desire for higher education greatly increased, this advanced work has been made possible to thousands of students through the scholarships. Public and private institutions, alumni, societies, clubs, industrial organizations, churches and individuals have given considerable sums of money to provide deserving students with higher education.

Oh, It Is a Glorious Thing to Be an English Judge

London.—To be a British judge is no peany-ante affair so far as clothes are concerned. Although a high ranking judge may earn $25,000 a year, a good share of his first year's salary must go toward buying court attire.

His full get-up is likely to cost him about $2,000.

At civil trials in winter time he must wear a black robe, scarlet girdle, ermine cuffs and hood.

For civil trials in summer he wears lighter robes of various colors. And in criminal trials and appeals he appears in scarlet robe with ermine trimmings.

Something's Awry at Gretina Green

Edinburgh.—The blacksmith at Gretina Green soon may be out of a job.

His job is to marry couples over the anvil at the old Gretina Green smith and in slack times to shoe people over the famous "marrying" premises.

Now a committee of inquiry has been formed here to study "irregular" Scottish marriage laws and may fear it will mean the end of Gretina Green marriages.

It was believed that the romance of eloping to Gretina Green with angry parents in pursuit would die with the mail coach days. Instead, the glamour of Gretina Green romance has survived and the automobile has revived business.

BULL HEADACHES COME, SIMPLE REMEDY DOES IT

Boston.—Cured by a simple remedy, the bull's head is the most common cause of bull headaches. The remedy is simple and effective. Each bull has a small, sensitive spot on its forehead. If this spot is rubbed with a certain oil, the headache is cured.

Voters of 4 States Ballot This Week

(By The Associated Press)

Voters of four states, starting with Maryland, today, ballot this week in preferential primaries.

Maryland—Democratic contest between President Roosevelt and Colonel Henry Breckinridge of New York.

California—Three Democratic and two Republican tickets are entered for tomorrow's primaries. On the Republican side the choice lies between a slate pledged to Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas and an unopposed one. On the Democratic side in addition to President Roosevelt the names of Upton Sinclair and Representative John S. McGowan were involved.

South Dakota—President Roosevelt was unopposed in tomorrow's primary. On the Republican side, the struggle was between eight delegates pledged to Senator Borah of Idaho and an unopposed slate claimed by supporters of London.

Alabama—President Roosevelt's is the only name on the ballot in Tuesday's presidential preference primary. Leaders said he was assured of Alabama's 23 votes at the Democratic convention. Democrats also will select the party nominees for a U. S. senatorship and 8 posts in the national house.

Eight-year-old Virginia Welder's modesty almost nipped her movie career in the bud. When Virginia was three, she refused to play a part because she had to remove her stockings in front of the camera.

Steinmetz Polish His Own Invention

A Ford sedan bearing the inscription "this car was polished August 5, 1935," has attracted the attention of a great many people recently as it was parked about the streets. Inquiry of George A. Steinmetz, the owner, who formerly was a sergeant of New York Board of Water Supply Police, brought forth the information that the car was polished that date with "Permanent Auto Polish," a preparation of his own invention, and since then nothing but an occasional wipe off and a wash has been done to the car. Mr. Steinmetz is an expert refinisher and restorer of antiques and modern furniture and for many years has been in the painting business. He is a resident of 104 O'Neil street and for many years has lived in Kingston, even prior to his retirement from the police force. His "Permanent Auto Polish," which he developed himself, is not for sale, but he explained that he polished cars himself by the process.

In explaining his process he said, "It is a process of my own, there is no wax of any kind in the polish or any liquid or varnish or lacquer and no cleaner is used which is a Duco remover." All that is required after a refinish, he said, was to give the car a little attention in washing it regularly to prevent the formation of a traffic film from weather, dust, exhaust fumes or grease. He stated that in parking his car at various points in the city where the public could see the finish, he had received numerous compliments. A number of local jobs have been done. A large New York concern has become interested in securing the rights to use the polish but this far Mr. Steinmetz has not placed his process upon the market, retaining the exclusive use of the product.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

Robert M. La Follette

By The Associated Press.

Senator Bob La Follette of Wisconsin is a political enigma just now. He is expected to throw his progressive support to President Roosevelt in the '36 campaign as he did in '32, but has not so committed himself. Senator Bob, like Brother Phil, the Wisconsin governor, has remained aloof from national third party discussions, although a close follower in Wisconsin. Representative Thomas Amle, is chairman of the American Commonwealth Federation. Even a Borah nomination by the Republicans probably would not serve the La Follettes from support of President Roosevelt. They are friendly with the Idaho senator and share many of his views, but are not likely to forget that he remained in the G. O. P. fold in 1924 when their father, the late Senator Robert M. La Follette, Sr., ran for President as a Progressive.

HUGHES, FATHER AT 94 LOOKS FOR "LONG LIFE."

New Bern, N. C., May 4 (AP)—George Isaac Hughes, the man who became a father at 94, predicted today he would live to be at least 110 years old.

"My grandmother, Katie Tillman, lived to be 110 years old and I expect to live longer than that and I'll bet you I'm just as physically fit then as I am now," the old man said.

He ridiculed reports that a recent respiratory infection had so impaired his health that he might not live to see his next child born. He and his 26-year-old wife are expecting their birth in June.

"My health is good," the old Confederate veteran announced, "I'm improving all the time."

His reaction to the expected addition to his family?

"Any man my age has a right to feel proud."

Regarding the birth of his last son, Franklin Roosevelt Hughes, he said:

"I was just as happy—more so, I reckon—after he was born, as I was when my first son was born."

His first son is now 63 years old. Hughes' paternity at so advanced an age astounded the medical profession 16 months ago, but physicians verified the case and an account of it was printed in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The old man's only income is a pension from his four years service in the Civil War. He tends a small garden, chops wood and does other chores about the house.

Hughes married his present wife—his second—in 1933.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 4, 1936

SPRING CLEAN-UP

Proclaiming of the week of May 4 as Spring Clean-Up Week should be an incentive for all residents of the city to brush up their properties and polish up their homes to make the city a more beautiful place in which to live. Kingston is an old city, rich in tradition and heritage, and its present residents should uphold the past and glory in its advantages. Patriotism in a city is a fine thing and by improving the homes Kingstonians can go a long way up the path toward making this city the envy of surrounding places.

In connection with spring clean-up the thought comes to mind concerning what was done in a western city and what might well be adopted in Kingston. One special day was set apart to clean up yards and brush up the homes, and all of the useless things collected during the winter as well as dead leaves and refuse was placed upon the curb. The entire Boy Scout organization of that city then set to work collecting the discarded materials, policing the streets until they were slick and clean. The collected material was placed in wagons and trucks and taken to specified dumping places. Thus the Scouts did the city an important favor and their "good deed" for the day.

Such a plan might be promoted here. The streets could be cleaned in a minimum of time and at little expense, relieving the street department of much extra work. By spreading the work among all Scout troops in the city the labor would be at a minimum for every youth. Boy Scouts of the city described took considerable pride in this one big joint endeavor. Perhaps local Scouts would feel the same glory in making Kingston a cleaner, more beautiful city.

SPURNED PROGRESS

From the governor of American Samoa comes a sad report of the indifference of the natives to the opportunities of civilization. Urged to participate in public affairs, to work and to provide for their future, they decline. They have even turned down the training offered them at an experimental agricultural school, for no better reason than that they do not care for farm work.

At a matter of fact there are public schools and missionary schools there with more than 2,000 pupils. Copra is produced and exported. The three administrative divisions of the islands are governed by natives appointed by the American governor. Thus it may be seen that the islanders are enjoying some of the educational and self-governing advantages of civilization.

If they show little interest in improving themselves and getting ahead in the world, perhaps the fault lies with civilization for not being more attractive. Plenty of people from the civilized United States entertain a secret envy of the Samoans and other South Sea Islanders because of their freedom from the rush and roar and routine of material progress and their enjoyment of much simpler material comforts than we think we require.

SUPER-ZEP FOR U. S.

As the time approaches for the first visit to this country of Germany's new zeppelin, the Hindenburg, plans are announced for construction of another dirigible in the United States. Engineers of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Company of Akron are already busy on designs. It is said work could be started within 24 hours if the government authorized it. The airship would be built primarily for commercial use, probably in transatlantic trade and travel. It could be converted easily, however, to serve as a flying air base for military service.

At the time of the tragic disaster occurring to the Akron and the Moons, America's two most recent dirigibles, the public became skeptical of this type of craft. The construction and successful trial flights of the new German ship arouse new interest here, and there will doubtless be popular support for another American dirigible. One doubt remains. Present plans are said to call for "the largest lighter-than-air craft ever built," longer than the German ships and longer than the ill-fated Akron and Moons. Why? Would it not be well to start with smaller ships and prove their worth and safety before building a giant even bigger than the wrecked giants of the past?

INTERNAL DANGER

Americans seldom pay much attention to foreigners in such domestic matters as freedom of the press. Yet quite a little attention has been given to a warning from Sir William Lewis, Washington correspondent of the London Times. Speaking to 500 leading American publishers, editors and business managers, he suggested that the chief danger to press freedom in English-speaking countries comes from within the newspaper profession, not from without. This danger, he thinks lies in "the achievement of great power by publishers, especially the heads of newspaper chains, if such power is not exercised in the public interest."

The speaker mentioned no names, but might have been doing a little pointing. There is no question that a few men in this country, say half a dozen or a dozen, have very great power over the fortunes of the national press. The more such vital power is concentrated, the more important it is that the power be used wisely and fairly, so as to arouse no demand on the part of government or public for restrictive action against the press as a whole.

FOODS THAT CAUSE PAIN

One of the points one suffering with indigestion must remember is that because a food disagrees with him it doesn't mean that it is not a good food. There is nothing wrong with the food but there is something wrong with the individual in that his digestive apparatus is unable to handle that particular food very well and yet may handle well another food that is actually harder or takes longer to digest.

Dr. Albert H. Rowe, San Francisco, in Southern Medical Journal reports an analysis of 2,000 students at University of California, and also his results in private patients during a period of fifteen years. Of 270 patients showing stomach and intestinal disturbances due to certain foods, 30 per cent were male and 70 per cent female. Of this 270 cases, 332, more than 85 per cent, had food dislikes or disagreeing foods. 80 per cent had stomach disturbances, 60 per cent had pain or soreness and 43 per cent had constipation.

To find out what foods are causing the disturbances may take months or even years, and much patience on the part of the physician and the patient. By gradually leaving out these disturbing foods, and getting the patient free from symptoms, the foods known to be the cause are gradually eaten again in very small amounts so that the patient develops a tolerance (ability to eat them without disturbance) for them.

There are, of course, other disturbances than those in the stomach and intestine, caused by foods, such as "head colds," hives or urticaria, asthmatic attacks, hay fever and asthma.

I have spoken before of "the foods that commonly disagree with people" as outlined in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Drs. Walter C. Alvarez and H. Corwin Hineshaw of the Mayo Clinic. These foods were wheat, onions, cabbage, apples, milk, eggs, fats, cantaloupes, beef, strawberries, coffee, lettuce, dried beans, cauliflower, melons, pork, corn and pickles.

The list of foods that do not disagree or were seldom mentioned by sufferers are lamb, gelatin, butter, sugar, rice, rice, barley, arrowroot, tapioca, sago, lima or soy or string beans, cooked apples, pineapple juice, beet, apricots, peas, Irish or sweet potatoes, egg plant, turnips, parsnips, pumpkin, artichokes, cooked pears and weak tea.

Despite the efforts of the railroads and various safety organizations to induce motorists to use greater caution in passing over highway-railroad grade crossings, increase for the month of January, compared with the same month last year, in the number of accidents at such grade crossings, and in the number of persons who lost their lives or were injured in such accidents, was shown in reports for that month by the Association of American Railroad

Gypsy Weather

By MARGARET BELL MONTGOMERY

SYNOPSIS: After Elmer Fleming killed his wife because of his drinking, Rupert Joris married a girl who came to him late one night for legal advice. Rupert was drunk at the time, now next morning, he is recovering from the effect of his "but" But Hope the girl, has left the house early and Dirk who is Rupert's younger brother, is a drunk himself, strongly worried. He has gone to look for her in haste—although there is no reason to suppose she has done more than taken a walk.

Chapter 11

DISGRUNTLED HUSBAND

SUDDENLY it occurred to Dirk that Hope might have returned to her hotel in Manhattan. This was doubtful, since she owed them money, but there was a chance. Flinging that, the management might give him some clue as to where else to look for her. The Jameson Hotel he remembered that, too, found the address of the hotel in the telephone book, of the first drug-store he passed.

The Hotel Jameson was a dingy hotel in the east thirties. A dingy lady at the desk repeated after him "Miss Devine, Miss Hope Devine."

She consulted her records and reported that Miss Devine had left some time before.

"I remember her now. A dark little girl—a music-teacher. The colored elevator boy was her pupil. She didn't leave an address."

Dirk asked if there was any mail for Miss Devine. Perhaps a postmark might be a help. It was important that he find her, he said.

The lady went listlessly through the files of letters. There was nothing for Miss Devine.

"I hardly thought there would be. That was one thing I remembered about her. She almost never got any mail. You know most girls get at least—wait a minute."

She had a conference with a boy who had just returned from lunch.

"Funny, that," she presently explained. "Miss Devine was in just this morning and got her trunk. It was—she had left it as a sort of security."

"Know where she went?" Dirk asked the boy.

No. She had merely paid her bill, and left.

Dirk left also. He thought he understood Rupert had no doubt given Hope money the night before, and she had come in forthwith to redeem her trunk. She had left at an incongruous hour for such an errand, but so long as she had accomplished it—

He had no doubt he would find her at Louie Wood.

HE was right. Mary informed him that Mrs. Joris had returned shortly after he left.

"She had been to church, sir... to early service."

So that was explained.

"You realize, Mister Dirk, that Mrs. Joris is the daughter of a parson."

This, Mary felt, was a timely rebuke to young gentlemen who seldom went to church at all. Mister Rupert's marriage had bewildered the servants by its unexpectedness, but it held the favor of romance, and they were tending it with relish today. The odd thing was for Mister Dirk to speed after the bride as soon as she stepped out.

"She brought her trunk back with her, sir. In the taxi Jane helped her unpack it. It's just gone down to the store-room."

"Where is Mrs. Joris?" Dirk asked.

"In her room, sir. And Mister Rupert wishes to see you as soon as you come in."

Dirk went upstairs to find Rupert sitting on the edge of his bed, a brown dressing-gown over his pyjamas. Rupert's eyes were bloodshot, his cheeks black and unshaven. The mop of his black hair was wet, and the bronze bowl beside the telephone beginning to fill with cigarette-stubs. The room was full of smoke, and the stale odor of whisky.

It was a plain room, crowded with books. Dirk could remember the time when Rupert had cared for nothing but to pore over books and ride his pony. Croon Joris, whose portrait had always reminded Dirk of Rupert, had been a squire and a spender. Rupert's tastes, on the contrary, had a Spartan simplicity—except in what concerned Elmer.

Nothing had been too lavish, too beautiful for her.

Dirk had opened a window, and the currents of smoke began to flow toward it. Rupert frowned at the light. He said:

"Hell of a mess I'm in. I've been talking to Connolly. He indicated the telephone. 'Where were you last night?' he added, staring at Dirk.

"I was in Jersey," Dirk answered.

"With Isabel."

"Well, do you know anything about it?" demanded Rupert. "I haven't cared to question Timothy. He let the women in, of course."

"She's not a woman," Dirk said, oddly on the defensive. "She's a girl. Eighteen. I should say."

"Connolly says she gave her age as twenty-one. You've seen her?"

"I talked with her last night, after you went upstairs."

"Was she sober?"

"Perfectly. Even solemn."

"This is no joke," remarked Rupert furiously.

"It is not," Dirk agreed. "But your asking if she was sober—"

"I didn't know but we might have had a few drinks together."

"There was no evidence of that," Dirk assured him. "She was sober, and I might say, desperate."

Rupert glanced at him.

"Desperate?"

"For money. She was stranded here. Her hotel had put her out—was holding her trunk."

"But she has a family—according to the record. Her father, she says, is the Rev. Somebody."

"They don't live here," Dirk answered. "The bank where she had her funds closed. It may be her family wouldn't or couldn't help her. She came to you, as a lawyer, to know what to do."

"She came to do what she did," replied Rupert. "It was a trick, and she managed it."

He reflected with some satisfaction that she had got no money out of him, whatever the trick might be. He was in the end. He had in his bill fold exactly the amount he had brought home with him the evening before, and his check-book had not been touched.

DIRK said, "I'm certain it wasn't a trick. I'm certain your proposal came as a surprise to her. Wait till you see her. It may even be you frightened her into it, or..."

Rupert seemed about to go into a rage, or offered marriage as the condition on which you would help her. She was without money, or food or friends. She was in a panic, so he hunted up a lawyer, and you happened to be the one she found."

"You're ridiculous, of course," Rupert remarked. "She saw the state I was in, and she took advantage of it. No decent girl would have done that. If she was drunk, too, I could understand it."

"It's odd," said Dirk, "that you should mention decency. That was the only question you asked her."

And, as Rupert stared, "I think you made some allusions to her family, but you asked her, as I understand it, only one question. I don't think she could have invented that suggestion, and if she's telling the truth about that, she's probably not lying about the rest. You asked if she was a decent girl."

Rupert was silent. He looked at his cigarette, crushed it out.

"No, I suppose she could not have invented that," he said finally. "However, I'll check on her antecedents and her decency. Too Annuity, under the circumstances, should be simple."

"I've already checked," said Dirk. Again Rupert's brief stare. It was the memory of Dirk's face that Rupert had carried over from the night before. Dirk, newly arrived, standing in the hall, looking at him there, had an impression, too, of Connolly. He had telephoned Connolly and got the facts, or some of them. Then he had seen Dirk, and learned that he had gone out.

"And you found?" said Rupert.

"I can assure you," Dirk answered, "that the girl is not only decent, but decidedly inexperienced."

Yes, he could assure him of that, and he wasn't going to have Rupert digging around, discovering the circumstances.

"You'll be telling me next," said Rupert, "that she didn't know I was tight."

"That's possible, too," Dirk admitted. "You carry it well enough. However, I shan't say that. I only say that she's a nice kid who came to you in a panic, and that marrying her was your own idea."

Rupert lit another cigarette. The matter of Dirk's looking up the girl, checking on her story, had aroused his gratitude somewhat. He drew and despised. The combination might insure a quiet settlement of the debt, Connolly had promised to keep it out of the papers, if possible. Rupert himself had looked the night before that the papers were in, though it had been too late for the Sunday edition.

Dirk had a very odd sense of triumph as he walked away.

SHOKAN

Shokan, May 2.—Dr. Wittner, who has a summer home near Atwood, was a caller here Wednesday. The doctor has the distinction of being one of the two or three men who have successfully performed the operation of removing a safety pin from a child's stomach.

The work of repairing the pavement of the north boulevard is now in progress between Ashokan and West Hurley. The job, in which a number of the city's men and trucks are employed, is in charge of Virgil Gordon of Brown Station. Members of the reservoir force have been engaged in getting out the crushed stone for the past several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Merrihew as usual are among the early birds in garden planting this spring. The Merrihews have two garden patches from which they derive much pleasure and profit each year.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nodine and son, Jackie, removed today from the Winchell house on the corner to the old Stewart place near the spillway. Mr. Nodine is employed by the B. W. S., having been transferred here from New York city last year.

Mrs. Adella E. Boice, who died Monday night in Kingston, had a number of friends here, many of whom had known her since girlhood. Mrs. Boice was the daughter of Albert and Jennie (Winne) Elmer.

Present, whose 33-acre farm embraced the present Lasher property in Ashokan. After marrying the late Zedek P. Boice she continued to make her home in this section for many years.

Otto Grossman, west end boarding house proprietor, has 500 baby chicks. Many of Mr. Grossman's chicks were hatched from eggs produced on his farm.

Mrs. Clyde Winchell, Mrs. E. Clayton Burgher and Miss Edna Longyear motored to Kingston Wednesday night to attend the Eastern Star bazaar and entertainment put on by the Ulster-Greene Lodges.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Altken, who recently returned home from Bayonne, N. J., were guests Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elmendorf's.

Harold Davis of Olive Bridge with his tractor has plowed up a large piece of land for corn for William Tueling. Tractor plowing is almost unknown here on account of the small size and roughness of the fields on many farms.

The banks of the streams are resplendent with shadblow, dogwood, cowslip, swamp violet, spice bush and dog-toothed violet bloom. The green of the birch foliage, now well advanced, adds to the beauty of the brookside scene.

A marriage of May 1, 1878, was that which united the sisters, Maria and Sarah Coons, to William Everett and Henry Elmendorf, respectively. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Bond, at the home of the brides' father, Jeremiah Coons, whose farm in the heights section was the present location of the new house.

Witnesses to the nuptials were Alvan Bogart and Nancy Elmendorf, Mr. Everett, who now resides at Lake Katrine, was a son of Benjamin Everett of near Temple's Pond. Mr. Elmendorf was a son of Elias Elmendorf of Olive. Mrs. Elmendorf still makes her home here.

A general rearrangement of the stock at the corner store has been made for the first time since water works days. The groceries have been moved to the north side of the store building which is one of the largest of its kind along Route 28.

Louise Thell, trustee of school district No. 4, advertised a district meeting for May 4 at 8 p. m., daylight time. High school questions and the annual election of officers will be included in the business of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Heiser of the spillway section have moved into rooms in the Terwilliger house at Ashokan recently vacated by Elder and Mrs. Arnold Bellows. Mr. Heiser was for many years a reservoir employee but was incapacitated for his duties as the result of an accident several years ago.

Ephraim Weeks, leading judge of horses in these parts, has traded animals and is now doing his custom plowing with a new horse.

Miss Josephine Murphy of Brookline is the guest for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. John Nodine.

Local Home Bureau members have received notice of the Advisory Council to be held Tuesday, May 5, at the Accord Reformed Church, at 10 a. m. The ladies of the church, and speech by Mrs. Martha Eddy and Mrs. Karl Van Zonsveld will be features of the meeting.

Alfred Rose, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rose, has completed his term of service at the Tannerville CCC Camp and is again at his home on the state road.

Timely showers in the north shore section Thursday afternoon came as a boon to the farmers who had sowed grass seed practically at a standstill for several days. The rains and warm spell also brought out the leaves and blossoms, which were retarded by the previous cool weather.

Otto Grossman has practically finished his rustic cabin on the north overlook and the buildings probably will soon be completed by the overwork of summer boarders from the Grossman main house.

Ministerial Meeting
 The Women's Ministerial Society of the Roundtop Presbyterian Church will meet at the home of Mrs. William McCullough, 270 West Clinton street, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The closing chapter of the study book will be presented at this meeting and Mrs. Benjamin Johnston will sing. All the women of the church are cordially invited to come. A brief meeting of the Ladies Aid Society will also be held at this time.

Aside from sorting boxes, baling hay and new clothes, one of the principal delights of this season to most Americans is strawberry shortcake, a dish an institutionally distinctive on a picnic.

Strawberries may come and savings may go, but spring without strawberries wouldn't be spring. Strawberry shortcake would hardly be worth considering to large number of citizens in all parts of the country.

BROKEN PROMISE No. 1

TALKS TO PARENTS

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

The X house took music as a matter of course, like three meals a day, books to read, the morning paper, and good pictures on the wall. The pictures were not always fashionable, but Mr. and Mrs. X paid no attention to current taste in that respect. They really loved and needed pictures, and they hung them, not to conform to fashion, but because they were an essential part of life.

The same was true of music. It was not an extra frill, but part of the pattern of the life they lived. All was music before them in the moderns, and in jazz as well as in the classics, and might alternate a Bach fugue with a negro blues.

The children were steeped in music from birth. No one worried about their taste, or took thought as to whether they were musically inclined. They hummed and whistled the tunes which permeated the air they lived in, and discussed the relative merits of Beethoven and Shubert, and they knew which was modern and which was classic.

They learned to read music as easily and naturally as they learned to read books. Their music lessons were desultory, depending on time and their own inclination. No one asked or expected them to play a piece, and yet the piano was in constant use, and the musical library, which was varied and large, showed signs of good service.

The treatment worked. Whoever plays for any of the X children is sure of a keen and intelligent listener who does not even blinch to say, "I love music" any more than he would think it necessary to say, "I love dinner." Music is part of his life, and whatever the future may hold for him, will be a sure source of comfort and refreshment.

Compulsory flag salute laws for public school children were attacked recently by the Academic Freedom Committee of the American Civil Liberties Union as un-American "mechanical rituals" of doubtful constitutionality in a survey sent to educational organizations and publications throughout the country.

Top Notch strutted about now, thinking.

"The pond would be a nice cool place," he thought. "Yes, I'll find myself a comfortable perch down near the water. To be sure I won't go too close to the water as I can't see the fascination in it that the ducks can. They'll be so busy with their pond work and play that they won't disturb me."

So Top Notch decided to write his book while enjoying the fresh cool air that blew across the pond.

"Scotland Yard" Gains New Strength in Bill

Albany, N. Y., May 4 (AP)—The so-called "Scotland Yard" division of the New York state police will be strengthened under a new law signed by Governor Lehman over the week-end.

The measure, included in the governor's 50-point anti-crime program, provides an inspector with the rank of lieutenant for each of the six troops. The inspector will act as district supervisor of the Bureau of Investigation, at an annual salary of $2,000.

The governor's signature to this and four other bills brought to 31 the total number of new anti-crime laws enacted at the 1935 session.

Expenditure of $375,000 will be required under the new state police law, which increases the force forthwith by 102 men.

Other crime control measures signed by the governor would: Make the presence of pistols and other weapons in an automobile other than a public omnibus, presumptive evidence of illegal possession by all occupants except peace officers and the driver operating a car for hire.

Provide for joint acquisition, construction, operation and control of jails by two or more municipalities in counties outside New York city.

Make uniform the law to secure the attendance of witnesses from both within and without the state in criminal proceedings.

Provide compacts with other states "for mutual helpfulness" in supervising criminals on parole. Other bills signed by Mr. Lehman, mostly of local and minor nature, brought the number of 1935 laws to 391.

THE WINNER of the 500-mile Indianapolis classic, Kelly Peltito, says: "Camels hit the spot. I've found that smoking Camels—during and after meals—goes a long way in helping keep my digestion in good shape." Camels set you right!

WOMAN'S WORK is never done, according to the old saying. Mrs. Frank Smith is a typical modern homemaker. "Camels make food taste better," says Mrs. Smith. "My digestion works smoothly when I smoke Camels during meals."

ALL ABOARD! Away from home, a business man meets many conditions that upset the normal routine of digestion. Camels stimulate good digestion no matter where you are. Smoke them for digestion's sake. Camels never jungle your nerves.

MASTER WELDER—Dan Rafferty has a job where good digestion counts. He needs a steady hand and a steady eye. "Smoking Camels helps my digestion," says Dan. "Camels taste mild and rich." Turn to Camels—for digestion's sake.

FOR DIGESTION'S SAKE SMOKE CAMELS

SECRETS OF THE DEEP. "Camels make food taste better and digest better," says Henry Simon, master diver. "That may Camel flavor is made to order for me."

Smoking Camels Encourages Good Digestion, Good Feeling... Increases Alkalinity

Modern days are trying. Nerves get "wound up." Hurry, worry, and strain tend to interfere with normal processes of digestion.

It is a scientific fact that smoking Camels has an alkalinizing effect, through increasing the flow of the alkaline digestive fluids, helping to keep digestion on its proper course. You sense a comforting "lift" and feeling of well-being as you enjoy the delicate flavor of your Camel.

You can smoke Camels readily. With their matchless blend of choice tobacco, Camels never get on your nerves or tire your taste.

CAMELS COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS... Turkish and Domestic... than any other popular brand.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

Sheer redingote themes are popular.
Liana Munn

The smart redingote theme in navy and white is a leading fashion of the day and appears in charming new versions that drape filmy chiffon over sheer prints to make delightfully cool and stylish frocks for the sunshine season.

In the model sketched above, navy chiffon tops an under frock of navy and white polka dot sheer, producing a lovely shadow print effect. This self-belted under frock uses white mousseline de sole for its boyish collar and the cuffs of the short sleeves. The over dress, fashioned of navy chiffon, is a separate garment that can be worn over other print frocks with equally effectiveness.

Among the new summer millinery, navy stitched taffeta is favored, being shown in numerous small shapes. Some hats have veils that tie in puffed bows at the back. Then there are Breton sailor types with patent leather trims and wider brimmed models, bedecked with flowers, such as the hat shown above—it is of stitched taffeta in navy and white, with a semi-wide brim that turns up at back and downward at front, using white straw flowers for its trimming.

Miss M. Morehouse To Represent County At National 4-H Camp

An announcement of the New York State winners for National 4-H Club Camp to be held in Washington, June 17-24, gives an Ulster County 4-H member the greatest honor that has so far been won by a 4-H Club member in this county. Marjorie Morehouse of the Lake Katrine Puritan Club has been chosen as one of the two young women to represent New York state at this camp.

The National 4-H Camp is an annual affair to which four delegates from each state that carries on 4-H Club work assemble and are given instruction in leadership by the best teachers obtainable. In addition these young men and young women will have the opportunity to see National Capitol, meet the President of the United States, secretary of agriculture, and others, and will be entertained by the First Lady of the land.

Miss Morehouse has been instrumental in promoting club work at the New Paltz Training School. At the present time she is the leader of two clubs in New Paltz. She has been a club member for seven years. In 1933 she was the county delegate to Camp Pycke at State Fair, and in 1935 she won a $10 prize on a dinner demonstration at the County Fair which was to be used for an education trip. Recently she was the delegate of the Country Life Club of the New Paltz Normal School to the Rural Life Conference at Ithaca.

She is a very enthusiastic booster of 4-H Club work and should in the future prove to be of great assistance in carrying out the 4-H Club program in Ulster county.

NUMEROLOGY TELLS SECRETS

Translate your name into numbers, add them up by the right system, and find out all about yourself. That's what George and Carol have been doing, and now they are leading out their lucky days, also by numerology.

"I was born June 9, so I'll be lucky on the 9th, 18th and 27th. And Tuesday is the luckiest day of the week for me," explains George.

"And the vowels of your name add up to 9, which makes you the executive type, full of force, courage and power," advances Carol.

George and Carol have picked up all this fascinating information at Home's where they found a new book on numerology. The whole crowd has been having a grand time figuring out the meaning of their names, the significance of certain years of street numbers, vibration of consonants and vowels. The first vowel in your first name also gives a clue to character. Vibrations of all the vowels refer to your inner nature; of all the letters, to your success in life.

It's not a bit hard to figure out, so fancy mathematics required. You can learn the key in two minutes with our 40-page booklet, Secrets of Numerology, which analyzes sample names and covers many phases of this intriguing subject. Sure to entertain you and your friends. Written in an amusing, human style, with delightful comments on our funny human nature.

Send for our booklet, Secrets of Numerology, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 103 West 18th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your Name, Address, and the Name of booklet.

At The Theatres

Broadway: "Little Lord Fauntleroy," Freddie Bartholomew, minus any fancy curls or velvet suits, lives the title role of this splendid story with a realness and a charm that puts this picture into a class by itself. The story is so universally known and loved that almost everyone has at some time or other read the tale of the little New York boy who becomes an English lord. A carefully chosen cast is of tremendous help to the little star and the work of C. Aubrey Smith and Dolores Costello Barrymore, who makes her screen comeback in this picture, is especially helpful. There are moments of excitement, much pathos and some excellent comedy. The adaptation was handled by Hugh Walpole and John Cromwell directed. A don't miss attraction that is recommended to the entire family.

Kington: "The Unhatched Hour," Desperate goings on mark the drama at the Kington, a blend of mystery, deceit, blackmail and sinister motives running rampant here, there and everywhere. The story is filled with danger, intrigue and humor and a fine cast of players race through the bewilderment of the plot with grim satisfaction. The cast offers Franchot Tone and Loretta Young, who prove a fine co-starring team, and Lewis Stone, Roland Young, Dudley Digges and Jesse Ralph are featured. A Sam Wood production. Orpheum: "The Gay Deception," One of the most fantastic yet enjoyable bits of nonsense of last year's screen romances is the main attraction at the Orpheum, the story of a small town girl who finds herself suddenly rich and who goes to New York for a fling. There are multitudinous laughs and the whole comedy adventure is presented in a lavish and entertaining manner. Frances Dee and Francis Lederer are featured. "Hot Off the Press" is the other full length feature with Jack LaRue.

Broadway: Same. Kington: "Panic on the Air" and "Tough Guy," Lew Ayres plays the role of a dirt slinging radio commentator in the first film at the Kington and the plot revolves around a strange five dollar bill he receives with code markings on it. Under threat of death, he turns the bill over to a pretty girl and the excitement begins. The whole episode which follows includes murder, kidnapping and ransom money with young Mr. Ayres riding high, wide and handsome through the danger of it all. Florence Rice, Benny Baker and Edwin Maxwell are featured. "Tough Guy" is sure fire melodrama, a fast paced, exciting yarn of a young millionaire who runs away from home with his dog due to his father's cruelty. He gets caught in a gang robbery and the robbers take him along with them because he has witnessed the crime. It is one of the most intense of the season's pictures with Jackie Cooper starred and with Joseph Calleia, Harvey Stephens and Jean Harlow featured. Orpheum: Same.

300,000 Workers on Farms
Chicago, May 4 (AP)—With mid-western farmers offering wages 10 to 12 per cent above last year, relief officials and employment services today predicted American farmers would absorb up to 300,000 workers from relief rolls this spring and thousands otherwise unemployed. A survey of 10 states from Ohio to Nebraska showed farmers paying an average of $1.10 a day with board for help in spring planting, or $1.80 a day without board. Directors of federal and state relief agencies have acted to provide help wherever needed. Reports of shortages have been few and scattered.

Speeders' Club Adds Several New Members

The East Chester street By-pass Branch of the Kingston Speeders' Club received several new members on Sunday afternoon when Motorcycle Officer Henry Barmann made several arrests of auto drivers who were found speeding along that thoroughfare. John F. Rabusac of Schoharie, speeding 54 miles an hour, forfeited $10 cash bail by failure to appear in police court today to answer to the charge. Richard Schnidder of Schoharie, accused of speeding 44 miles an hour, had his hearing fixed for later.

Heinrich G. Rothe of Jannocroan, N. Y., speeding 44 miles an hour, forfeited $10 cash bail. Charles F. Schmidt of Highland, accused of speeding 44 miles an hour, had his hearing set for later. Peter Sottile of 187 North street, arrested for speeding 50 miles an hour, pleaded guilty to speeding, but said he was not driving 50 miles an hour as charged. He was fined $10.

Other Police Cases.
John Longman of Accord was fined $2 for driving a car with four riding in the front seat.
Joshua M. Morrow of Boiceville was fined $5 for public intoxication, as was Arthur Miller, a negro, of Murray street.
David Klein, 17, who ran away from the CCC camp at Margaretville, was picked up here riding a bicycle on Sunday. He told the police he had stolen the bicycle near Margaretville. This morning Klein was turned over to state troopers to be taken back to Margaretville to stand trial for theft of the bicycle.

Socialists Lead in French Voting

Paris, May 4 (AP)—A Socialist government for France was in prospect today as the result of yesterday's parliamentary election.
Leon Blum, Socialist and leader of his party, announced he was ready to take over the power.
The Socialists will be the largest party in the new chamber of deputies with 145 seats and they claimed the right to head a "People's Front" government with Blum considered the likely premier.
The People's Front parties—Socialists, Radical-Socialists and Communists—were "ready to form and lead a People's Front government."
A difficulty in forming a People's Front cabinet, however, was seen in a result by Blum for "common action" in the government. This was interpreted in chamber of deputies lobbies as meaning that Blum wants his Communist allies to enter the cabinet and it is expected that they would refuse to do so.
With all but four of the 518 districts accounted for, the returns showed this standing:
Left 378
Center 137
Right 99
Under the French constitution, the present cabinet remains in office until the new chamber of deputies convenes June 1.

State Convention At Niagara Falls

New York, May 4 (AP)—Joining in the efforts to rebuild the Prohibition party on a broad national basis, the New York provisional organization will hold a state convention in Niagara Falls May 7.
In the event of a prolonged session of the national convention, opening in the same city tomorrow, the state meeting will be held immediately after its adjournment.
The convention call was issued by William F. Varney of Rockville Center, provisional chairman of the state organization.
Besides organizing support for the national ticket in the November election, the convention will nominate a state Prohibition ticket and elect a state chairman and an official staff.
Varney, a Long Island insurance and real estate operator, said he had received assurance that more than 50 delegates would attend the state convention.
"This is beyond our expectations," he said, "considering that each delegate pays his own expenses."
Varney said he believed the future activity of the party would be on a broader scale.
"We are endeavoring to stress vital issues in addition to the liquor problem," he said. "The appeal will be made on a humanitarian basis."

Lester J. Roosa Elected in Third Supervisory District

The deadlock that has existed in the Third Supervisory District of Ulster county was broken at the adjourned meeting of school directors held at the Wayside Inn at noon today, due to the fact that Sherman Gockie, one of the directors from the town of Denning, failed to show up until after the meeting was over.
The result of the balloting showed four votes for Lester J. Roosa, teaching at Tarrytown and three votes for H. Hartley Tanner of Accord, the present district superintendent.
The school directors first met April 21, when the vote was a tie at four each for Tanner and Roosa. The meeting was then adjourned till today.
It is understood that Gockie was a Tanner delegate and had been present the vote would probably have continued a tie.
Mr. Tanner has been superintendent of the Third District of Ulster county since February, 1928. He succeeded the late Elsie J. Roat, who resigned on account of ill health.

Kingston High Trims Port Jervis Taking DUSO League Opener 12-3

Kingston High School opened its DUSO League baseball schedule in grand style Saturday by handing Port Jervis a decisive 12-3 setback. The Maroon and White showed no mercy for Port's pitching staff, landing on their offerings for 18 hits, including a home run and three triples.

Charlie Beck was on the mound for Kingston and allowed eight scattered hits throughout the game, running into trouble only in the fifth inning when he was nicked for a double and a triple, giving Port Jervis their only score of the game. Charlie set down five by the way of the strike out and gave only one free pass. Outside of the fifth inning he was never in trouble and had smooth going throughout.

Elmer Hopper had a big day with the stick, polling a homer, triple and a single in five trips to the plate, as well as accounting for six runs, driving in four and scoring twice himself. Eddie Beck and Tony Rhinehardt also connected for three batters. Captain "Rip" DeMico, Tommy Maines and Tony Rhinehardt had two hits apiece.

Bill Nied of Port was the leading hitter of the day, connecting safely four out of five times, one of which was a triple, to account for half of Port's hits.

Eddie Beck started things rolling in the initial inning by polling out a triple and scoring on a single by Tommy Maines. Ralph DeCicco tallied in the second after being given a base on balls, sacrificed to second by Rhinehardt and driven in on Hopper's single. With two down in the third inning Kingston went to town. Charlie Beck rested safely on first by virtue of a fielder's choice, singles by Tommy Maines, Ralph DeCicco and Lon Glenn coupled with Tony Rhinehardt's triple and Elmer Hopper's home run pushed across six more runs as well as driving Pitcher Jack Lord from the mound in favor of Bill Nied in the middle of the onslaught, who brought the scoring spree to a close after the damage was done. Port Jervis had their say in the fifth, scoring three runs on a double, triple and an error to gain a place in the scoring column. The seventh found Kingston piling up four more runs. Singles by DeCicco, Hopper and Beckhoven along with Glenn's walk and an error by Pedorka accounted for the quartet of runs and drove Nied to the showers to be relieved by Ken March, who gave up one hit in the last two innings.

With two men on in the eighth Lon Glenn pulled down Pedorka's line drive to double Pettis off first, ending the inning and what appeared to be a rally.

Hedricks Win from Berardi A. C., 6 to 2 In Pre-Season Game

If the pre-season game played Sunday afternoon at Haabrouck Park between two City League teams, the Hedricks and the Berardi A. C., means anything, last year's City League champions will be put to it to hold their place this year.

With Phil Komosa pitching and allowing but five hits the Hedricks won their game six to two. Cullen and Chick shared the pitching for the Berardi and allowed but six hits between them, but unfortunately for them the safeties all figured in the scoring.

Turk at short played an outstanding game, getting three hits in five times at bat, scoring twice and handling nine chances without error. As far as that goes but one error was charged during the entire game.

Cubs Defeat All Stars In Ninth Inning, 8-7

A stirring last inning rally staged by the Kingston Cubs in their tussle with the Colonial All Stars on Sunday at Decker's Field gave the Cubs an 8 to 7 triumph.

It was a see-saw battle throughout. The winners took a one run lead in the first, but the stars retaliated by showing a trio of markers over the plate in the second. The Cubs made it 3-2 in their half. A three run sista in the fourth put the Cubs on top momentarily but Vogt's Colonials came back again in the seventh and eighth respectively with three runs to put them in the lead by 7 to 5. Then the big ninth came. Sarkisian walked. Schrick singled and the initial batter scored on T. Grant's error in left. Struble singled and Bruce passed Slight. Swarthout placed a neat sacrifice down the right field line and Struble scored the winning tally.

U. S. RADIOMEN FLASH NEWS OF SACKED CAPITAL

in the British legation. A rescue party from the legation found five persons dead in front of the Turkish legation from which defenders had fled after an attack by rioters armed with rifles and machine guns.

Mrs. Stadin Killed

It was estimated that at least ten Europeans had been killed in Addis Ababa in the last 48 hours. Among them was one American—Mrs. A. R. Stadin of Loma Linda, Calif., an American medical missionary who was struck by a stray bullet as she slept.

In Geneva, diplomats regarded the course of the Ethiopian war as a major blow to the League of Nations as at present constituted. The questions incident to the Italian victory were numerous but unanswered. A reframing of the League of Nations was considered likely. Inevitable, in the opinion of official Geneva, was peace in Africa dictated on terms laid down by Premier Mussolini, but the nature of those terms remained in doubt.

Whether League members would consent to the use of military measures in the future to stop hostilities such as those in war-torn Ethiopia was a question which might be considered when the League council meets May 11.

Selassie Awaits Decision

Djibouti, French Somaliland, May 4 (AP)—Haile Selassie I, fugitive emperor of Ethiopia, awaited a decision by the French and British governments today concerning his final place of refuge and the means to be placed at his disposal to reach it.

Whatever happens, the King of Kings was represented as having little hope of returning to rule over his defeated empire.

After his hurried flight from Addis Ababa, while the northern Italian army advanced on the capital and just before native rioting and looting broke out, the emperor and his family were guests in the palace of the French governor-general.

The British destroyer Diana stood by in the harbor after arriving from Aden, Arabia, apparently to take on the Ethiopian imperial family, but one informed source reported British authorities decided to send a larger warship when the 1,400-ton Diana was found too small to accommodate the party.

Other reports circulated that the Italian government might be invited to express an opinion or indicate its wishes concerning the country to which the emperor would go in exile.

No Formal Abdication
While the future status of the emperor in relation to his government remained uncertain, informed sources pointed out that he had not abdicated formally and was still nominally monarch of Ethiopia.

When he fled from his capital early Saturday, he turned the care of the government over to his ministers.

The emperor himself blamed his plight and that of his kingdom on betrayal of his own warriors, rather than on the military power of the Italian armies.

Reports from Addis Ababa of a reign of anarchy, terror and looting, with foreigners taking refuge in the legations, appeared to bear out the emperor's statement concerning a breakdown in discipline among the native tribesmen.

Woman Under Italy
There were rumors that the emperor would abdicate in favor of the crown prince and that Asia Wossen would become emperor under Italian domination.

The Italians have indicated, however, that they might place Prince Menelik, grandson of the late Emperor Lij Tassu, on the throne. Lij Tassu was dethroned by the late Empress Zaudita and Haile Selassie.

Considerable interest was aroused by a hurried visit the French governor-general paid last night to the home of Prince Menelik, who lives at Tajura, a few miles from here. There was no intimation as to the purpose of the visit.

The emperor was protected by a heavy guard in the governor's palace. Haile Selassie himself declined to make any public statement, but his French host said the reason for the emperor's flight was that some of his own people plotted against him.

The emperor studied the possibility of a last-ditch stand at the Tenaber mountain pass and decided to return to Addis Ababa to seek reinforcements for his northern army.

Was Under Fire
En route to the capital, he was fired on several times by hostile bands of his subjects. Arriving finally in Addis Ababa, he found the town thronged with wounded warriors and the families of his slain followers.

After conferring with members of his government and his military advisers, the emperor came to the conclusion that he could no longer serve his country by remaining at the head of his army, and decided to end the struggle against his enemies at home and abroad.

Summoning his ministers to the royal palace, he informed them of his decision and directed that Ras Ayelu, who had been imprisoned for high treason since 1930, be brought from his prison cell.

Together with his counselors, the emperor fixed the hour for his departure with his family and granted Ras Ayelu his freedom.

Signing a pardon at 4 a. m. Saturday, the emperor handed it to the Ras with the words:

"Today you see the result of your treason in 1930. Go, return to your province. You are free physically, but your soul will always be in chains."

Joins His Family

Shortly afterward, the Negus Negusti left the imperial palace and joined Empress Menen and their children, who were already aboard the train for Djibouti.

The emperor's ministers accompanied him, as did 50 members of his once-vaunted imperial guard. When the train arrived yesterday at Adcha, just a few miles west of the French Somaliland frontier, it halted.

The imperial guard alighted and stood at attention along the siding. In dramatic silence the Negus came to the platform and gave his followers a last salute. Then, with tears in his eyes, he waved to the railway employees to proceed.

CANCER RAY EXPERIMENTS DESCRIBED AT CONFERENCE

Atlantic City, May 4 (P)—The first experiments with a new, long sought cancer ray, which is nearly twice as hot as X-rays to malignant growth but comparatively cool to healthy flesh, were described to the American Society of Clinical Investigations here today.

The ray is a neutron beam, developed at the University of California. Its first applications to cancer, reported today, strengthens hopes of medical science for a more powerful weapon against cancer.

The experiments were on mice at the University of California by Dr. John Lawrence of Yale University and P. A. Aebersold and Dr. E. O. Lawrence of California.

Neutron beams were tried on 600 mice having the type of mouse cancer known as Sarcoma 180. The neutrons, the report stated, proved to be four times as lethal as X-rays to the mouse cancer. They were only 2.7 times as hot as the same X-rays to healthy mouse tissue. This means that neutrons will be nearly twice as hot and destructive as X-rays at the same degree of coolness, that is safety, to healthy tissue.

Hoover Says G-Men Hindered in Mid-West, Karpis Was Scared

New York, May 4 (P)—J. Edgar Hoover, here after delivering Alvin Karpis to St. Paul authorities for prosecution on kidnaping charges, said today that cooperation with his men in some middle west communities is "rotten."

"Corruption or inefficiency among police authorities is the cause of notorious lack of cooperation with the department in many communities," declared the director of the Justice Department's Bureau of Investigation.

"It is rotten in some places. I won't name them. But they are in the middle west. Nationally—in general—cooperation is excellent. We will cooperate with officials anywhere there is not a lot of politics, crookedness or the officials are publicly crazy."

Hoover was asked: "Is the government satisfied that Bruno Hauptmann alone was responsible for the Lindbergh kidnaping?"

"Although there might be a possibility that Hauptmann had accomplices, the government is convinced that he was a prime factor in the Lindbergh case," he said.

He was asked whether any of the Lindbergh ransom money had been turned up since Hauptmann's execution.

No Ransom Reported
"Not a dollar of ransom money has been reported since Hauptmann's arrest," he answered. "The financial statement at a conference in New York last Tuesday accounted for between $49,000 and $50,000 of the ransom in Hauptmann's transactions. "Although only about $16,000 was in original ransom bills, it is entirely possible that the remainder slipped through the banks and got back to the United States treasury without being detected."

"Not a single bill turned up outside of New York, which tends to confirm the belief that Hauptmann was operating alone. If he was part of a gang the money would probably have been circulated elsewhere, because gangs scatter."

Karpis Was Scared
Hoover spoke of Karpis' surrender in New Orleans last Thursday. "He was scared out of his wits. His teeth were clenched in pure fright and his hands were trembling. He was shaking all over. He thought we were going to kill him. "There was a ride in the back seat, but he made no move to get it.

"We took him to the office of the Department of Justice and began to question him. I saw him watching a window. The office was on the second floor, but he might have tried to jump out, anyway."

"I said: 'Don't try to pull any fast ones.'"

"Well, you're probably going to kick the ears off me anyway," he said.

"I told him no one would lay a hand on him if he behaved himself."

"Even if I don't answer questions?"

"Even if you don't answer questions."

"That seemed to relieve his mind."
